Editor's Corner

The life of your newsletter editor is just one disaster after another these days. This newsletter is a “mini” because after completing the moves of my parents to separate senior facilities (due to their different physical needs) last month and getting them settled in, my mother had a fall and ended up in the hospital. She hadn't been feeling right for about a week and when she got to the Emergency Room we were told that although her cut was superficial she was suffering from end stage kidney disease. She was admitted to the ICU for a week. She was just transferred to the TCC at Marshall to Comfort Care with not a lot of time left. My dad, not to be outdone, was admitted to the hospital this past

Tuesday with issues that they still have not completely resolved. So, at least they are in the same place and my sister, brother and I, along with our kids, have been keeping them company every day.

My dogs wish that we could get back to normal and so do I!

No more crisis for me, PLEASE!

Mary Clark, Editor
